

LLB English And French Law (Maitrise)

Prospectus 2018

University of Essex

CROSSING BORDERS SINCE 2002

One Course, Two Degrees

Since its creation in 2002, the degree gives students the rewarding intellectual experience of discovering the richness of both the French and English legal cultures. The first two years are spent at Essex, where the required modules in English Law are taught to practice as a solicitor or barrister in the UK. You also take French law in both years, which is taught in French by four full-time academics.

Why Essex?

- 1 You can spend two years at Essex and two years at one of our partner Universities.
- 2 The most important double-degree in the UK (we take around 50 students each year).
- 3 One of the five universities in the UK qualifies students for legal practice in both France and the UK. (double qualifying law degree)
- 4 Our lecturers work with the UN, the UK government, and with EU and foreign governments.
- 5 We have been awarded the highest rating of GOLD in the Teaching Excellence Framework and are top 20 in the UK for Research Excellence.

ONE COURSE. FOUR UNIVERSITIES.

Université Toulouse 1 Capitole

Located at the heart of the city centre in South-West France with direct flights from London, the university provides an excellent environment of study with the opportunity to access the European School of Law.

Université Jean Moulin Lyon 3

Located in the heart of the city centre of Lyon and benefiting of the international airport, the University provides an exclusive environment for students who can have access to the Institute of Comparative Law.

University of Essex

Located in Colchester, Essex, the University benefits from its proximity and connection with London Airports. In continuing search of excellence, the University is continuously investing in order to provide the best for students.

Université Paris Nanterre

Located in the district of La Défense in Paris, the University benefits from Paris Airports and public transport (RER). Real campus, students can benefit from various facilities.

WHO WE ARE.

At Essex Law School, our approach to law is global in outlook. Our teaching is built around our research strengths. Our degree courses reflect our commitment to providing a legal education that's relevant and responsive to the demands of a changing society. They combine rigorous legal training with opportunities to develop practical expertise. This prepares you to become an outstanding legal professional and gives you the skills and knowledge to be an agent for change, whatever your ambitions.

We are pretty proud of our rankings and credentials...

And who wouldn't be? They are pretty impressive, even if we do say so ourselves: Top 20 in the UK for research excellence (REF 2014), Top 10 for student satisfaction (English mainstream universities) for the fourth year in a row (NSS 2016) and now Gold status with the TEF.

But we don't stop there. We're never satisfied with the status quo – we don't just learn 'how', we challenge 'why'. We are a genuinely colourful and vibrant global community who collectively strive to explore, question, and create powerful ideas.

Where we are

Essex Law School is on the University of Essex's Colchester campus, an hour by train from London, on the outskirts of Britain's oldest recorded town. Colchester is a great launch pad for exploring London and the east of England. Our bold architecture in a parkland setting might be an acquired taste for some, but we love it and there's no denying, it's iconic, pioneering, and most of all, it's home.

Fee's and funding

Home/EU fee: $9,250

International fee: $13,350

Fees will increase for each academic year of study.

French Partnership Bursary

If you're from France and will be starting at Essex in 2018, we offer you a bursary of $1,000 for your first year.

THE CHOICE OF DIVERSITY

In addition to fostering links between the English and French legal systems, the double degree benefits from multicultural societies present at the University. This is a unique opportunity for students to break barriers, prejudices and open their minds to the world. Studying in a global community contributes to shaping a new World where knowledge has no border.

At the University of Essex lies a global community which has been recognised in the Times Higher Education World University Rankings – we are in the worlds top 20 for our international outlook. Essex truly is the world in one place, with students and staff from 140 different countries and international research collaborations tackling realworld challenges.

SOMETHING MORE THAN A DEGREE.

At Essex, you have the opportunity to make your degree count, create a society or simply be a member of it, there are numerous of cultural, intellectual and other kind of societies.

Get involved in one of many sports club or work for the students' Union, there are so many ways by which you can develop other skills and creates link at the University. You can also make the choice of working for the Students' Union.

Essex and the FBLS

The Franco-British Lawyers Society (FBLS) offers students of the double degree different events where they can discover more about their prospective careers.

The FBLS and the English and French Law Double degree both aim at the same thing: the promotion of a double legal culture which stimulates and encourages intellectual awareness and contributes to the development of the law in two different jurisdictions.

England and France share lots of history in common and fostering links between the two countries by sharing our differences and similarities will further the creation of transnational laws and will contribute to a better understanding of the two legal systems.

BEYOND THE FRONTIERS.

There are many ways by which the students from the double-degree can stay in touch. Various projects have been created by students or teachers of the University in order to connect students together.

The Association of the Double Degree

“The “Association du Double-Diplôme Essex-France” is a project undertaken by students of the double-degree in English and French Law (Essex-France). The Association's main and fundamental goals include, but are not limited to:

- Promoting the double-degree among prospective employers, universities, as well as prospective students;
- Fostering and maintaining a well-established network among alumni and current students of the double-degree to assist the latter's academic and professional endeavours;
- Enhancing the students' experiences and skills through the organisation of activities and pilot projects such as a mooting competition in English and French laws.

The Association was established in 2014. Due to its peculiar nature, the Association ultimately aims to develop and maintain the unprecedented and unique network among alumni and current students of the double-degree. The concretisation of this ambitious project therefore leads to:

- The creation and implementation of regional hubs in Essex, Lyon, Toulouse and Nanterre to facilitate communication between students in France and in Essex; and
- The creation of a national committee to implement and facilitate communication on a greater scale among alumni and current students of the double-degree.”

- Yasmin Afina

French Connection Society

The French Connection's existence as a society is based on the idea that we should make the most out of the richness the cultural spectrum the University of Essex has to offer.

Further than representing the university's French community, it aims at promoting different features of the French culture on campus and give every student the chance to add a French touch to their Essex experience.

The Newsletter of the Double Degree

“I made the choice to be part of the editorial team, because I remember reading the newsletter back in France and how much it influenced my decision to come and study at the University of Essex. I hope that by sharing my experience I can help prospective students back in France make their decision.”

- Sophie de Pétigny

STUDENTS HAVE THEIR VOICE.

There are many ways by which students to the life of the University. You can become a Peer Mentor for new students, Student Ambassador for prospective students or Course Representative.

Student Ambassador

“Being a student ambassador was a rewarding experience. I had to reassure and help applicants through the most stressful part of the application process: the interviews. I was also answering parents' questions. It was quite funny to give answers to questions that my parents and I asked ourselves during the same process! Also, my role was to represent how open minded and welcoming the University of Essex which is the most rewarding part of the job. Being one of the face of the University made me feel even more included, that's way I would recommend it to anybody.”

- Ornella Kono N'Taba

Peer Mentor

“My job as a peer mentor is to help students regarding life or academic issues. This is usually the first contact used by students when they need support. During my first year, I have made a lot of mistakes and learned from them. Taking them into account, now I try to provide the best support.” - Chelisea Osei-Kyei

The French Law Frontrunner

“The French Law Frontrunner is engaged in various projects throughout the year and is open to all students. In collaboration with the French Lecturers, he/she has to work for about eight hours a week. He/she can be asked to make research, organise a conference, a debate, a Career Event with Alumni... This is a unique opportunity for students to develop skill alongside their degree and get actively involved in the double degree.” - Adrien Rosier

Course Rep

“Being a Course-rep is a real chance. You have the opportunity to speak closely with your teachers and lecturers. Furthermore, you can feel really important because you support all your cursus, and solve problems that really matter to your fellows and you are involved in the improvement of the teaching and the University overall..” - Celestin Guy

*The University makes every effort to ensure that this information is accurate and up-to-date. Exceptionally it can be necessary to make changes, for example to courses, facilities or fees. Examples of such reasons might include a change of law or regulatory requirements, industrial action, lack of demand, departure of key personnel, change in government policy, or withdrawal/reduction of funding. Changes to courses may for example consist of variations to the content and method of delivery of programmes, courses and other services, to discontinue programmes, courses and other services and to merge or combine programmes or courses. The University will endeavour to keep such changes to a minimum, and will also keep prospective students informed appropriately by updating our programme specifications.

The full Procedures, Rules and Regulations of the University governing how it operates are set out in the Charter, Statutes and Ordinances and in the University Regulations, Policy and Procedures.
